Keymacro is a free basic tool to record keyboard shortcuts. KEYMACRO allows you to press one key and automatically type out a complex of characters using the same combination of letters. You can create a macro for one or multiple combinations of letters. This is similar to using a shortcut key sequence but has the advantage of recording any combination of keyboard shortcuts you may use. It is useful if you forget the key shortcut. The recording can be saved in several formats. You can set the key repeat, backspace interval and all the other parameters. In the recording window you can choose the clipboard to copy or edit the text. The clipboard can be a text file, a bitmap image, or any Windows clipboard format. The macro can be executed by pressing Alt + the recorded shortcut key sequence. KEYMACRO can handle keys that are not mapped to a standard keyboard combination, such as a special key or button. You can use the application without installing. Program features: Keymacro can be used to automate your work with the mouse and keyboard. You can create keyboard shortcuts using a dialog.
